107.7 FM JUNE

Friends:

With KRAB's 36 hour broadcast from the Folklife Festival at the Seattle Center following the on-air fundraiser and solarium-raiser by less than 3 weeks, things were rather hectic at KRAB during May. I think some 'thank you's' are in order regarding those events.

To the 684 people who pledged $15,200 to KRAB--THANK YOU! Your kind words of support, as well as criticism, are equally deserving of a thank you.

To the approx. 100 people who donated items or services to be used as premiums during the Marathon--Thank You. Your support for community radio made for a more lively and productive Marathon. (By the way--to those of you who are suppose to receive one of those premiums, please continue your already apparent patience--we will contact you shortly.)

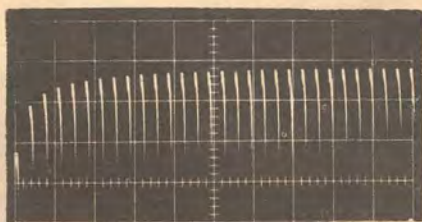

To the volunteers of KRAB, who put in service above and beyond the usual dedicated effort--thank you.

To the 20 volunteers and energy grant staff who helped Project Director Keith Dublanica raise the solarium/greenhouse on KRAB's roof--thank you. Alternative energy and alternative radio have never looked so good!

As for the Folklife Festival Broadcast, Phil Andrus, who voluntarily produces the Broadcast, Asaph Murfin, KRAB Chief Engineer, Rick Chinn from Tapco Mixers, Tom Eckels, Craig Siegenthaler, Ben Dawson, and other volunteers too numerous to mention produce surely some of KRAB's best radio. Thank you all.

Such events as the Marathon, International Women's Day, and the Folklife Broadcast allow for a different and valuable communication to take place between KRAB and the community. We hope that such communication can happen more often.

X Jamie Jones

SHORT WAVES: LISTENERS TO VOLUNTEERS

Each month this column, SHORT WAVES, will connect listeners and volunteers to encourage communication and feedback. In the interest of the improvement of KRAB's radio service, your advice and opinions are needed.

First, some numbers to consider....Listener supported non-profit radio station KRAB-FM broadcast 300 hours of programming from May 1 to May 14, 1981. During that period, approximately 253 hours were devoted to entertainment based shows. Included in this category are programs presenting jazz, earth music, ethnic music, Baroque and Renaissance music, folk music, country/western, bluegrass, blues, rhythm & blues (including gospel), new bluegrass, vocal/classical, women's music, nostalgia, and comedy. During the same period, KRAB broadcast nearly 54 hours of informational programming. A major part of this time featured news: international, labor, science, gay/feminist, ethnic, senior citizens, and community. Readings and art news are also part of this category. For the two weeks surveyed, entertainment comprised 83% of broadcast time. Informational programming occupied 17%. By way of comparison, the number two rated AM station (according to Arbitron) provided 72% entertainment and 28% information, after commercial time was subtracted.

Your Opinion Please

On a post card or in a letter, list

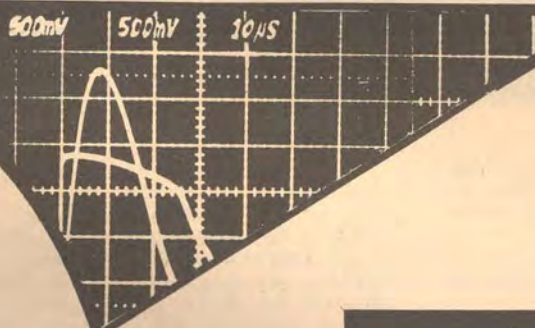

- A) Your 3 favorite KRAB programs
- B) If you like, finish the following:

KRAB's greatest strength is . . .

KRAB's greatest weakness is . . .

Feel free to express yourself in as little or as much detail as you wish.

12:00 THE MUSIC ROOM
"Omnivirtuosity -- the Late Hindemith Sonatas, Part I" While Kathryn Taylor's away, Paul Stanbery plays; this time the quarter-hundred sonatas that precipitated once the musical theories of Paul Hindemith, dean of 20th century German composers, had started to cool. Three piano sonatas frame tonight's cycles for four string instruments (2 for violin, 1 ea. for viola, cello, double-bass), and four out of five brass (trumpet, french horn, trombone, and tuba). This third landmark on the "Turn Left Past Wagner--the Path through German Music" series is continued tomorrow night at 11:00 PM.

This musical extravaganza was taped during its performance at Meany Hall at the UW on 3/31/81. Sponsored by the Church Council of Greater Seattle, this offering of massed choir and instrumental music features the voices of young people gathered from 19 Seattle area churches. Scenes from Crossroads Ecumenical Theatre production of "Godspell" are included. A true "labor of love" originated and directed by Kent Stevenson, Choral Dir. of Garfield High School. Produced by Mary Wanner.

11:00 THE PROMISCUOUS DREAMER
"Omnivirtuosity -- the Late Hindemith Sonatas, Part II" Paul Stanbery proves that listening to the quarter-hundred sonatas that Paul Hindemith wrote for virtually every orchestral instrument can be actual ecstasy. Three organ sonatas frame tonight's cycles for unusual combinations (2 pianos, 4 horns, harp, alto horn -- in horn and alto sax versions), and five woodwinds (flute, clarinet, oboe, english horn, bassoon). Bartok's Sonata for 2 Pianos & Percussion and other Hindemith music rounds out a celebration that began last night at midnight when you could have passed the first half of the third landmark on the "Turn Left Past Wagner -- the Path Through German Music" series.

4:00 KRAB'S GUIDE TO THE DRAMATIC USE OF THE HUMAN VOICE IV (Or, Olivier Reads THE BIBLE)
